Proud to partner with ESG Accord

With Consumer Duty and Suitability Disclosure Requirements on the horizon, it's becoming increasingly important that providers who claim to have ESG credentials are able to evidence this and that, as an advice professional, you're able to demonstrate you've researched this aspect and that the outcome matches the most appropriate products and services to client preferences and objectives. By partnering with ESG Accord, we're now able to add their data to your due diligence and suitability process within Analyser.
